

HOMELESS IN PARADISE

July 22, 2016

Column #92

ARE BIG BANKS TO BLAME?

Microchip implants and potted horsemeat for the homeless

By Wanda Sue Parrott

FOLLOWING last week's column, screenwriter Ron Libert of Kershaw, SC e-mailed his encounter with homelessness. If Thomas Jefferson could respond, he'd probably agree that Ron confirms his prediction during the 1809 congressional debate to renew the U.S. National Bank Charter:

"If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property until their children wake up homeless on the continent their Fathers conquered. . ."

Here is Ron's description of a Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) camp where my own research revealed homeless persons are implanted with microchips for electronic tracking and identification.

From The Street: A Tale Of Two Cities By Ron Libert

A year ago, I met a homeless man, who was a Viet Nam Vet, receiving a small pension to cover his Agent Orange exposure. He started studying the bible and soon I got to meet a number of his homeless friends.

They tended to gather each day in the parking lot of a deserted mall. As long as they stayed in that particular area, away from the downtown area nearby, the police did not harass them.

Evidently, the town of Camden (a suburb of Columbia, So. Car.) decided there were too many homeless and some were even soliciting funds.

I told all who would listen that the city of Columbia was taking homeless people off the street and putting them in a Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) camp. There they could only leave for a job appointment or to leave the state.

Sure enough, soon some of the Camden homeless were picked up and did not return. When the city of Charlotte heard that Columbia had “cleaned the downtown streets” of the homeless, they adopted the same FEMA camp solution and cleared the entire downtown area of homeless.

My bible student was spared because he could say he lived with his sister, who was a known local resident with a nice house. They did not get along, so he seldom slept there, often sleeping in a friend's truck.

I had started a second bible study with another Camden homeless man when he suddenly disappeared. I was unable to confirm he had been put in a FEMA camp, but his friends still around were sure that's what had happened.

Now some would say mandatory living in a FEMA camp might still be a better option than the streets, but if that were the case, most all the homeless would be requesting transportation to the nearest FEMA camp. However, considering the fact that the homeless cannot leave the camp except for a job interview or to leave the state, to some it might sound more like a prison-- complete with walls of fencing.

And what do the homeless do while incarcerated in the FEMA camps? No one seems to know, since interviews are not granted and access to the inmates/guests is almost impossible.

Is this the coming fate of all the homeless? Did you even know this was happening in at least two states?

Homeless Camps And Horsemeat Burgers

My online searches confirmed that Raleigh, NC, followed the lead set by Columbia and Charlotte, SC. back in 2013. True, the mess on the streets appeared solved by mandatory removal of the homeless to a remote area where a 240-bed FEMA camp shelter was located; however, there were major repercussions.

The criminalization of homelessness on Aug. 14, 2013 by the Columbia City Council incited such a backlash from police, the media and the public that council rescinded its decision within one month.

On Sept. 4, 2013, council gave homeless persons the right to choose going to jail or the shelter rather than being forced off city streets, a policy still in practice today.

Everything from exposés to conspiracy-theory concentration camp claims popped up:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tSenUa0qOFg>

Also, I found unbiased news like the CBS coverage of FEMA emergency shelter camps erected for disaster relief after Hurricane Sandy left thousands homeless:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8TcMC7ZQ\_6w

The National Report's excellent piece about horsemeat being served FEMA inmates/guests combined the lurid with factualism as illustrated in the photo shown above:

<http://nationalreport.net/horse-meat-served-south-carolina-fema-camp-occupants/>

More Dangerous Than Standing Armies

In his bank charter debate, Thomas Jefferson also said, “I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies... The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the people, to whom it properly belongs.”

The speech has been praised by liberals and pooh-pooed as spurious by conservatives, none of whom had apparently yet lost a home through bank foreclosures that led to homeless.

If this description fits you, is there a FEMA camp in your future?

###

Photo of Thomas Jefferson painting by Rembrandt Peale; photo “Horsemeat for the Homeless” from The National Report, online approximately 2013; Photos provided by author or as shown; used for educational/illustrative purposes only; no copyright infringement intended.

Contact Wanda Sue Parrott at amykitchenerfdn@hotmail.com or leave a message with The Yodel Poet at 831-899-5887.